

Targeting hunger

Contributed photograph

The members of the Boulder Junction Shooting Range took a shot at hunger by recently donating $400 to The Community Food Pantry. Rev. Bob Anderson (left), board chairman of the food pantry, accepts the check on behalf of the pantry from Jim Hornbrook, vice president of the shooting range. From its headquarters in Boulder Junction, The Community Food Pantry serves some 2,200 households across western Vilas County. Food is distributed Thursdays. Neighbors in need are urged to call the pantry at 715-686-7515 or visit the website at www.commhbj.org.